Towards a Poor Theatre Sep 22 2021 "In 1968, Jerzy Grotowski published his groundbreaking Towards a Poor Theatre record of the theatrical investigations conducted at his experimental theater in Poland. This classic work on acting performance is now available once again. In his preface to the original edition, Peter Brook wrote: "Grotowski is Why? Because no one else in the world, to my knowledge no one since Stanislavski, has investigated the nature of its phenomenon, its meaning, the nature and science of its mental-physical-emotional processes as deeply as Grotowski. More recently, Richard Schechner has called Grotowski "one of the four great directors of Western theater." Jerzy Grotowski was born in Poland in 1933. In 1982 he moved to the United States and worked at the University of Wisconsin. He later moved to Italy, where he continued his unique and intense theatrical investigation. He died in 1999"--Publisher description.

The Empty Space Nov 05 2022 Discusses four types of theatrical landscapes; the deadly theatre, the holy theatre, rough theatre, and the immediate theatre.

The Art Of Writing Drama Jul 29 2019 The Art of Writing Drama is an indispensable textbook for wherever writing the stage is taught, but also serves as a foundational book for any student taking courses in performance media, television and film. Coupling theory with practice, the book opens with a survey of the current methodologies of playwriting and of textual analysis. The theories of Bakhtin, Foucault and Derrida are examined as are the agendas of play reviewers from the national press. In the second section of the book, a wealth of guidance with practical examples of the skills of writing for the stage is provided. Throughout the text, Wandor draws on her extensive experience as a playwright and teacher of creative writing to provide a guide that is both a scholarly and an immensely practical writing for the theatre.

Style: An Approach to Appreciating Theatre Sep 30 2019 Style: An Approach to Appreciating Theatre offers brief, readable chapters about the basics of theatre as a starting point for discussion, and provides new adaptations of plays that are both accessible to students learning about theatre and fit for production. In this text, style is the way to describe the various ways in which theatre is done in real space and time by humans in the physical presence of humans. The book uses style, the "liveness" of theatre that makes it distinct from literature or history, as a lens through which playwrights, directors, designers, and actors bring scripts to life on stage. Rather than focusing on theatre history or literary script analysis, it emphasizes actual theatrical production through examples and explores playscripts illustrating four theatrical styles: Realism, Theatricalism, Expressionism, and Classicism. Susan Glaspell's Realistic play Trifles is presented as written, while The Insect Play by the Brothers Apeck, The Hairy Ape by Eugene O'Neill, and Antigone by Sophocles are original, full-length adaptations. Style: An Approach to Appreciating Theatre is the perfect resource for students of Theatre Appreciation, Introduction to Theatre, Theatrical Design, and Stagecraft courses.

Empty Space and Points of Light May 31 2022 The book presents a study of key issues in Winterson's oeuvre. The selected works include Oranges are not the Only Fruit, art & Lies, The PowerBook, and Written on the Body, works that are concerned with the self in relation to the concepts of time, love, gender, and the body. Drawing on Jungian ideas and individual and Queer theory, Marie Herholdt Jorgensen shows how these concepts in the works of Winterson are grounded in the prospect of numerous potential realities in which several narrations of the self are made possible. Winterson disrupts the notion of one objective reality and instead centers on the individual as the narrator of various versions of reality and the self. The book contains summaries of all of Winterson's novels, making the book accessible to readers previously unfamiliar with Jeanette Winterson.

Species of Spaces and Other Places Aug 02 2022 This selection of non-fictional work from the author of Life, a User's Manual, demonstrates Georges Perec's characteristic lightness of touch, wry humour and accessibility.

The Grotowski Sourcebook Jul 21 2021 This acclaimed volume is the first to provide a comprehensive overview of Jerzy Grotowski's long and multi-faceted career. Performance and Practice Oct 31 2019 First published in 1997, this volume takes a dive into methods of teenage storytelling, including questions of believability, fashionability, rebellious spirit, the supernatural, personal narrative, and riddles, along with an archive of texts collected by the author intended to illuminate and inform the analysis. It builds on the extensive work of Peter and Iona Opie on the same subject involving children of all ages and explores connections to folklore and narrative variations from a performative perspective. Michael Wilson shares their findings that children continue to cherish their traditional lore in the face of modern technological entertainment. His study is similar to responding to the poor status and even denial of a teenage narrative tradition, inspired by both short and extended narratives which he experienced daily. Wilson hoped to give academic depth and breadth to the storytelling renaissance and giving teenage storytellers their rightful place in our ongoing oral narrative tradition.

Physical Theatres Jun 19 2021 This new edition of Physical Theatres: A Critical Introduction continues to provide an unparalleled overview of non-text-based theatre, from experimental dance to traditional mime. It synthesizes the theory and practice of physical theatres for students and performers in what is both a core area of study and a cutting-edge and innovative aspect of theatrical practice. This comprehensive book: traces the roots of physical performance from classical and popular theatrical traditions looks at the Dance Theatre of DV8, Pina Bausch, Liz Aggiss and Jérôme Belloc examines the contemporary practice of companies such as Théâtre du Soleil, Complicite and Goat Island focuses on the principles and practices in actor training, with reference to figures such as Jacques Lecoq, Lev Dodin, Philippe Goussier Monika Pagneux, Etienne Decroux, Anne Bogart and Joan Littlewood. Extensive cross references ensure that Physical Theatres: A Critical Introduction can be used as a standalone text or together with its companion volume, Physical Theatres: A Critical Reader, to provide an invaluable introduction to the physical in theatre and performance. New edition: a chapter on The Body and Technology, exploring the impact of digital technologies on the portrayal, performance and reading of the theatre body, spanning from onstage technology to virtual realities and motion capture; additional profiles of Jerzy Grotowski, Wrights and Sites, Punchdrunk and Mike Pearson; focus on circus and aerial performance; new training practices, immersive and site-specific theatres, and the latest developments in neuroscience, especially how these impact on the place and role of the spectator.

Devising Theatre Jan 03 2020 Devising Theatre is a practical handbook that combines a critical analysis of contemporary devised theatre practice with descriptions of selected companies, and suggestions for any group devising theatre from scratch. It is the first book to propose a general theory of devised theatre. After identifying the unique nature of devised performance, the author examines how devised theatre is perceived by professional practitioners, and provides a historical overview illustrating how it has evolved since the 1960s. Alison Oddey examines the particular working practices and products of a number of professional companies, including a Reminiscence theatre for the elderly and a theatre-in-education group, and offers ideas and exercises for exploration and experimentation.

The Solace of Open Spaces Sep 03 2022 These transcendent, lyrical essays on the West announced Gretel Ehrlich as a major American writer—"Wyoming has found its Whitman" (Annie Dillard). Poet and filmmaker Gretel Ehrlich went to Wyoming in 1975 to make the first in a series of documentaries when her partner died. Ehrlich stayed on and found she couldn't leave. The Solace of Open Spaces is a chronicle of her first years on "the planet of Wyoming," a personal journey into a place, a feeling, and a way of life. Ehrlich captures both the otherworldly beauty and cruelty of the forces—the harsh wind, bitter cold, and swiftly changing seasons—in the remote reaches of the American West. With depth, tenderness, and humor to her portraits of the peculiar souls who also call it home: hermits and ranchers, cowboys and schoolteachers, dreamers and realists. Together, these essays form an evocative and vibrant tribute to the life Ehrlich chose and the geography she loves. Originally written as journal entries addressed to a friend, The Solace of Open Spaces is raw, meditative, electrifying, and uncommonly wise. In prose "as expansive as a Wyoming vista, as charged as a bolt of prairie lightning," Ehrlich explores the magical interplay between our interior lives and the world around us. (Newsday).

The Penguin Book of Outer Space Exploration Jul 01 2022 The fascinating story of how NASA sent humans to explore outer space, told through a treasure trove of historical documents--publishing in celebration of NASA's 60th anniversary and with a foreword by Bill Nye "An extremely useful and thought provoking documentary journey through the milestones of space history. There is no wiser or more experienced navigator through the twists and turns and ups and downs of space exploration than John Logsdon." -James Hansen, New York Times bestselling author of First Man, now a feature film starring Ryan Reynolds and Claire Foy Among all the technological accomplishments of the last century, none has captured our imagination more deeply than the movement of humans into outer space. From Sputnik to SpaceX, the story of that journey and the inside history of our voyages to the moon depicted in First Man--is told as never before in The Penguin Book of Outer Space Exploration. Renowned space historian John Logsdon traces the greatest moments in human spaceflight by weaving together essential, fascinating documents from NASA's history with his expert narrative guidance. Beginning with rocket genius Wernher von Braun's vision for voyaging to Mars, and closing with Elon Musk's contemporary quest to get there, this volume traces major events like the founding of NASA, the first American astronauts in space, the moon landings, the Challenger disaster, the daring Hubble Telescope repairs, and more. In these pages, we such as Eisenhower's reactions to Sputnik, the original NASA astronaut application, John Glenn's reflections on zero gravity, Kennedy's directives to go to the moon, discussions on what Neil Armstrong's first famous first words should be, firsthands accounts of spaceflight, and so much more.

The Theatre of Thomas Ostermeier Mar 17 2021 Thomas Ostermeier is the most internationally recognised German theatre director of the present. With this book, he presents his directorial method for the first time. The Theatre of Ostermeier provides a toolkit for understanding and enacting the strategies of his advanced contemporary approach to staging dramatic texts. In addition, the book includes: Ostermeier's seminal essays, lectures and manifestos translated into English for the first time. Over 140 photos from the archive of Arno Declair, who has documented Ostermeier's work at the Schaubühne Berlin for many years, and by others. In-depth 'casebook' studies of two of his productions: Die Besessenen (An Enemy of the People) (2012) and Shakespeare's Richard III (2015) Contributions from Ostermeier's actors and his closest collaborators to show how his principles are put into practice. An extraordinary, richly illustrated insight into Ostermeier's working methods, this volume will be of interest to practitioners and scholars of contemporary European theatre alike.

Free Space Jan 27 2022 In the follow-up to Admiral, the intergalactic war has ended and hostilities between the Evagardian Empire and the Commonwealth are officially over, but the admiral is far from safe. . . . I'd impersonate prince, temporarily stopped a war, escaped a deadly planet, and survived more assassination attempts than I can conveniently count. After all that, there shouldn't have been anything simpler than a nice weekend with a charming Evagardian girl. However, some corners of the galaxy aren't as genteel as the Empire, and Evagardians aren't universally loved, which is how I ended up kidnapped to be traded as a commodity. Their timing couldn't have been worse. I'm not at my best, but these people have no idea whom they're dealing with: a highly trained, genetically engineered soldier in the Imperial Service who happens to be my date.

The Solace of Open Spaces Feb 25 2022 A collection of transcendent, lyrical essays on life in the American West, the classic companion to Gretel Ehrlich's new book, Unsolaced "Wyoming has found its Whitman." —Annie Dillard Poet and filmmaker Gretel Ehrlich went to Wyoming in 1975 to make the first in a series of documentaries when her partner, Bill, stayed on and found she couldn't leave. The Solace of Open Spaces is a chronicle of her first years on "the edge of Wyoming," a personal journey into a place, a feeling, and a way of life. Ehrlich captures both the otherworldly beauty and cruelty of the natural forces—the harsh wind, bitter cold, and swiftly changing seasons—in the remote reaches of the American West. She brings depth, tenderness, and humor to her portraits of the peculiar souls who also call it home: hermits and ranchers, rodeo cowboys and schoolteachers, dreamers and realists. Together, these essays form a rich and vibrant tribute to the life Ehrlich chose and the geography she loves. Originally written as journal entries and shared with a friend, The Solace of Open Spaces is raw, meditative, electrifying, and uncommonly wise. In prose "as expansive as a Wyoming vista, as charged as a bolt of prairie lightning" (Newsday), Ehrlich explores the magical interplay between interior lives and the world around us.

White Space, Black Hood Mar 29 2022 A 2021 C. Wright Mills Award Finalist Shows how government created "ghettos" and affluent white space and entrenched a system of American residential caste that is the linchpin of US inequality issues a call for abolition. The iconic Black hood, like slavery and Jim Crow, is a peculiar American institution animated by the ideology of white supremacy. Politicians and people of all colors propagated "ghetto" myths to justify racial segregation that concentrated poverty in the hood and created high-opportunity white spaces. In White Space, Black Hood, Sarah Cashin traces the history of anti-Black residential caste—boundary maintenance, opportunity hoarding, and stereotypical driven surveillance—and unpacks its current legacy so we can begin the work to dismantle the structures and policies that undermine Black lives. Drawing on nearly 2 decades of research in cities including Baltimore, St. Louis, Chicago, New York, and Cleveland, Cashin traces the processes of residential caste as it relates to housing, policing, schools, and transportation. She contends that geography is now central to American caste. Poverty-free havens and poverty-free hoods would not exist if the state had not designed, constructed, and maintained this physical racial order. Cashin calls for abolition of these state-sanctioned processes. The ultimate goal is to change the lens through which society views residents of poor Black neighborhoods from presumed thug to presumed citizen, and to transform the relationships state with these neighborhoods from punitive to caring. She calls for investment in a new infrastructure of oppo poor Black neighborhoods, including richly resourced schools and neighborhood centers, public transit, Peacemak Fellowships, universal basic incomes, housing choice vouchers for residents, and mandatory inclusive housing els Deeply researched and sharply written, White Space, Black Hood is a call to action for repairing what white supr still breaks. Includes historical photos, maps, and charts that illuminate the history of residential segregation as institution and a tactic of racial oppression.

Feb 02 2020 While training for the priesthood, a stint with a hospital chaplaincy team brought Mark Oakley face to face with a depth of suffering that blew his young, confident faith apart. Years later he was still picking up the pieces, but they began to show an entirely different picture of where and how God could be found. The Collage of God is for all who find it difficult to reconcile the realities of life with easy and comfortable notions about faith. In imaginative and beautiful language, and illuminated by many quotes from modern writers and poets, Mark Oakley reconstructs as a collage of traditions and texts, the myriad experiences of living, imagination, silence and prayer by which we are drawn to the grace of God revealed in fragile lives. A contemporary spiritual classic.

Apr 29 2022 These essays explicitly confront a particular crisis in postwar art, seeking to explore the assumptions on which the modern commercial and museum gallery was based.

Feb 13 2021 Architecture is a doing word. You can learn a great deal about the workings of architecture through analysing examples but a fuller understanding of its powers and potential comes through practice by trying to do it... This book offers student architects a series of exercises that will develop their capacity for architectural analysis. Exercises in Architecture builds on and supplements the methodology for architectural analysis presented in the author's previous book Analysing Architecture (third edition, Routledge, 2009) and demonstrated in his Twelve Buildings Every Architect Should Understand (Routledge, 2010). The three books taken together deal with the three aspects of learning: description, analysis of examples, and practice. The book offers twelve exercises, each divided into a short series of tasks aimed at developing a particular theme or area of architectural capacity. The exercises deal with themes such as place-making, learning through drawing, framing, light, uses of geometry, stage setting, eliciting emotional responses, the genetics of detail and so forth.

Pedagogy and Partnerships in Innovative Learning Environments Dec 26 2021 ?This book examines contexts and possibilities in Aotearoa New Zealand education contexts arising from the international trend for open, flexible, innovative learning environments (ILE), specifically on the pedagogical load. The book responds to questions such as: What does it mean to teach, learn or lead in an innovative learning environment? What happens when teachers move from single cell learning spaces to open, collaborative ones? The chapters provide examples of how teaching in new learning spaces can be an exciting challenge for teachers and students where they try new ways of teaching and learning, and rethink the purposes of learning and the implications of societal change for learning and what is valued. Examples are drawn from pre-service teachers working in primary and secondary schools and in-service teachers learning to become professionals. The book offers insights into a variety of educational contexts where teachers and students learn to move to new learning spaces, and also how different teaching and learning partnerships may be conceived, and flourish. The book focuses attention on a range of aspects that teachers, school leaders, and other educators, and researchers may find valuable when they embark on similar initiatives to consider issues pivotal to productive and effective innovative learning environment design, development and implementation.

Reconciling People Apr 17 2021 To mark the 50th anniversary in 2012 of the rebuilding of Coventry Cathedral after its destruction by incendiary bombs in November 1940, this lavishly illustrated volume celebrates a unique church with a unique mission. The decision to rebuild the Cathedral was taken the morning after the bombing - not as an act of defiance, but one of faith, trust and hope for the future of the world. Reconciling People tells the story of every aspect of the Cathedral's life: its architecture in war and in peace, its theology, worship and spirituality, music and the arts, its ministry, its place in the life of the city, the Cathedral as a place of reconciliation, its people over the decades and its life today. Co-published with the Friends of Coventry Cathedral, this celebratory volume is a record of how a 900-year-old cathedral rose from the ashes of violent destruction to become a symbol of reconciliation and to develop a unique mission among Britain's churches.

space.time.narrative May 19 2021 Making exhibitions is a collaborative art, producing is a multi-layered unity of ideas and objects, of invention and manifestation, of content and form. However, there is an antagonistic dimension to this because content and form are traditionally represented by the entirely different realms of curator and designer. Successful developments in exhibition-making are dependent on whether this gap of antagonism can be bridged. space.time.narrative calls for a paradigmatic shift of focus. It puts forward a unique approach, breaking down traditional barriers and offering a wide-ranging theoretical context, redefining and expanding the parameters and the dynamics of the exhibition-format in terms of an open, narrative environment, which at its roots displays deep similarities with performance on stage, or installation in urban and rural space. The book breaks new ground by looking at the exhibition as a cultural format firstly within a great sweep of the arts in general, weaving a web of philosophical, museological, linguistic and media-theoretical references, which expands the contextual field of the profession. It then offers important insights from within, in extreme close-up, by bringing together interviews with six of the leading exhibition designers who discuss the dynamics of the medium, its interactive dimensions, the soft parameters of the exhibition, and how to get to grips with the format as a complex narrative space, in which the public takes part. Curator and designer should reposition themselves professionally at the heart of the axis, which divides (or connects) content and form.
